

I am concerned about the pending decision to extend Part 15 radiation limits to powerlines. As you know, the limits contemplated isolated devices radiating in widely dispersed locations. As you also know, powerlines are ubiquitous. We live with enough pollution already. I can no longer see the stars at night because of light pollution, and I am forced to use a hard wired LAN in my office because of interference on 2.4 gig. That is part of the disadvantage of living in an urban area. Please don't make it worse here or inflict it on rural areas. There has to be another way.
